Charges Grow Out of Alleged Disorders in Strike Here.

Nine members of a CIO union were indicted yesterday by the Fulton county grand jury as the result of alleged disorders growing out of a strike against the Georgia Art Company, of 280 Garnett street, S. W., now engaged in making tent poles for the Army.

The strike was called on July 2 by the local 263 of the United Furniture Workers of America to back up a demand for a 20 per cent increase in wages. Fulton Brown, president of the local; Aaron Brown, William C.

Durden, Charles Sikes, Emmett Toney and R. A. Starr were charged in misdemeanor indict-ments with conspiring to prevent non-strikers from engaging in their lawful employment. The Browns, who are brothers; Sikes, S. G. Howell, I. H. Defnall and Clifford Smith were also in-dicted on a charge of assault and battery on J. P. Spears, of 62 Clarke street. In other indictments, Durden, Sikes and Toney were charged with assaulting Everett Chancey, of 3406 Lang avenue, Hapeville; Howell and Aaron Brown with attacking W. L. Vaughn Jr., of 461 Pulliam street, and Howell with assaulting J. P. According to R. P. McLarty, attorney for the company, the firm, whose usual business is making picture moulding, recently ob-tained a contract to make 500,000 tent poles for the government at 24 cents per pole, the contract totaling $124,000. He said that after installing machinery, the company learned that it would cost 32 cents to make each pole, and that it was unable to grant a 20 per cent raise. He said that the company had recently given its men two in-creases, was now willing to go one and a half to two and a half cents per hour higher, and that present wages at the plant ranged from 35 to 75 cents per hour.

The company employs 63 men ordinarily, said McLarty, and 58 are now working. Half of these, he added, are returned strikers

Cases Complete Against Four Of Saboteurs

Trial Slowed Up byReading of Many Lengthy

WASHINGTON, July 17 .- (P)ases against four of the eight aleged Nazi saboteurs on trial for their liver before a military commission were completed today, the ninth day of the trial.

Still to be presented is the evidence against the four remaining defendants, and such defense as the eight may offer.

Major General Frank R. McCoy, president of the commission, an-nounced the prosecution had rested its case against the four defend-ants who landed on Long Island, N. Y., from a submarine. The others, also brought to the coast on a U-boat, landed in Florida.

The time required to present the prosecution's evidence against only four of the defendants made it clear the trial would last much longer than had been generally anticipated.

Slowness of the proceeding apparently resulted from the timeconsuming reading of many lengthy documents. General Mc-Coy said the reading of one long document, started yesterday, was completed this morning. One of the FBI witnesses was recalled by the defense counsel for additional ross-examination.

The four against whom the prosecution has completed its case are George John Dasch, Ernest Peter Burger, Heinrich Harm Heinck and Richard Quirin. The other defendants are Edward John Kerling, Herbert Haupt, Hermann Neubauer and Werner Thiel. They are accused of being ene-mies of the United States, acting on behalf of Germany, and of un-lawfully entering this country for the purpose of committing sabo-tage, espionage and other hostile acts in violation of the laws and articles of war.

Fourteen persons described as being their "immediate contacts" in this country have been appre-hended, with official indications that additional arrests might be

Needless Labor, Army Says.

Lieutenant Colonel E. J. Glavin, public relations officer for the command, stated that more than 20 false rumors of parachute landings were received today while the Army continued to investigate a report that six parachutes were seen descending last night a few miles from President Roosevelt's Hyde Park estate.

In the statement issued tonight Colonel Glavin said that in the wake, of last night's report "there have been many false reports cir culating which tend to cause alarm and fear in the localities where they originated."

He cited these examples as typical of the false rumors: A man in New York state tried to tease or impress a 14-year-old boy by saying he had seen a parachutist "dropping from a dark plane." ATLANTA, GA., JULY 18, 1942.

At no time in Atlanta's amazing history of development, generosity and civic enterprise, has there been any finer manifestation of citizenship than in the record of Friday's many

In the morning Chairman John L. Connor announced that a "Million Dollar War Bond Breakfast" was really a breakfast celebrating about $3,500,000 in War Bond sales. And not a mere $1,000,000. (The breakfast itself consisted of bacon and eggs and grits for which each guest paid.)

During the day Atlanta's merchants vied in contests to sell stamps and bonds. It was "War Heroes' Day" and rarely has Atlanta seemed to enjoy a day as much. There were parades and bands to enliven the day.

It was a city-wide, enthusiastic, inspiring display of patriotic effort. The advertising of the merchants was unique and many highly original results were obtained in the writing of the advertising copy. The stores themselves offered entertaining inducements to honor our

In the evening the United War Relief Fund was announced as over-subscribed. This, too, was the result of splendid organization, enthusiastic work and a spirit which was remarkable in that it never lagged.

The honor roll of that organization begins with the two general chairmen, Julian Harrison and W. E. Mitchell. Preston Arkwright and Ryburn Clay were the advance gifts chairmen; Clarence Haverty and Erle Cocke headed the business division; Charles H. Jagels and John O. Chiles were the employes division chairmen; George A. Giese and W. C. Harris the general canvas chairmen, and Tom Moore and George Whitman the county division chairmen. Hunter Bell did a most capable job of handling pub-

The working teams all did an outstanding job of getting the money.

Most remarkable was the spirit of the day, from the breakfast on through the day. It was a fine example of the democratic way of doing a job. The city seems to express a warmer community spirit; a finer and more emotional response to the war effort.

It was a grand day, and The Atlanta Constitution congratulates the several chairmen and also the army of anonymous workers. It is inspiring to be a part of such a magnificent city and its people.

It is well to remember that goods and accomodations taken from civilian use for the military necessity does not always work a hardship on civilians. There are less civilians. Our population has not been increased by the number of men under arms.

One of the 3,000 who last month occupied a room at the Stevens may well be one of the 10,000 soldiers who next month share a room

Welcome Editors

Atlanta is happy to welcome the editors of Georgia in their annual convention.

As might be expected, the discussions have to do with the problems of war and the decreased revenues which curtailment of business has brought

The approach is, as might be expected, intelligent and courageous. The newspapers are meeting the problem with harder work, shorter staffs and searches for new business. They are maintaining the same high standard of news and editorial content.

The home-town newspaper is an integral part of the life of each citizen. The American press, with whatever faults it may have, still remains the very best press the world has, or has ever had. Newspapers are an integral part of what we call "The American Way of Life."

Thomas Jefferson expressed it when he said: "Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter."

Georgia's editors, now assembled, merit the confidence of their readers. The state press always has been strong and constructive.

He took a seat on the trolley, looked out the window a few moments, then took from his pocket three cartridges. He handled each one carefully, then began forming different patterns with them on the palm of one hand.

Another passenger seated next to the boy watched the lad and the cartridges until finally his curiosity got the best of him and he asked, "Why the ammunition?"

The boy didn't look up. He studied the bullets.

"Ya see this one?" he asked, indicating one of the shiny cartridges. "This one's for Hitler. This one is for Hirohito. And this one is for Mussolini." The man laughed. The boy clutched the cartridges tightly between his

There may be some who would look upon this boy as sort of a modern David who has selected his pebbles for three Goliaths. Others would say the brat should be punished for harboring murderous intentions and be deprived of his bullets before he gets into trouble.

Of course the lad is neither a brat nor a David. He is an American to whom the names Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini mean no more bicycles, no more trips into the country on Sundays less dessert because of lack of sugar. He must be aware his nation is fighting for her life, and the enemy is personalized in Hitler. Hirohito and Mussolini.

Let us hope the lad doesn't have to use the cartridges on three such gangsters when he grows up. Let us hope his world will be one of peace and understanding, with all the wrongs now besetting it eliminated.

Give him credit for his courage and for the fact that, as an American, he knows who the enemies are. More Americans should be carrying bullets for Hitler, Hirohito and Mus-

Georgia Editors Say: TALMADGE FEARFUL

(From The Early County News.) With the state gubernatorial election only two months away and the issue boiled down to Talmadge versus Arnall, politics will now come to a sudden boiling point and by the day of election will be running a fever heat. It is very encouraging to followers and supporters of Ellis Arnall to see the numbers of people who have joined the forces of the attorney general. And some of these people are those who only a few days ago didn't give Arnall an outside chance. Even Talmadge's staunch supporters are predicting a hot and close race. We've always been one to take our politics on an even keel. And we don't fall out with those who are friends of present governor, because some of our best friends are Talmadge supporters. But this year we are taking more than just an idle interest in the race. The Governor has injected some of the worst and meanest issues n the race in an effort to save his political hide. He has brought up the mythical "nigger" queswhich tore our great nation asunder several decades ago. Any really informed person knows that no one in Georgia has advocated teaching Negroes in the same school with white boys and girls of Georgia. Don't you know that if this had been advocated by professors at the University that the students who are there every day would have found it out long before our great and virtuous Governor and would have done something shout it? Doesn't this seem reasonable? Certainly it does. When such a low and mean question as this is injected into a race for governor, you may know that this candidate has just run out of an issue and is emulating the drowning man who grabs at the match.

WASHINGTON PARADE

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

RUBBER QUESTION WASHINGTON, July 17 .- Much of the widespread public confusion that exists over the rubber question is attributed to the half-baked statements of the self-styled "experts." Too many of them have been shooting off their mouths.

If the people would only leave the problem to be worked out by the regularly constituted authorities, without being misled by the conflicting claims of the so-called experts, we would all be better off.

One thing the public may rest assured about. That is, that everything possible is being done by Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, who is immediate charge of the problem, to give us an adequate synthetic rubber supply as soon as possible. The government is not painting the picture overoptimistically, for the good reason war conditions are too uncertain.

Undoubtedly the chief contributor to all of the public confusion has been the house committee on coinage, weights and measures. This a second-rate committee whose only justification for living is that it was once created and never has been abolished. With perhaps a single exception, it has not handled a piece of major legislation in 20 years or more.

Recently the committee chairman, Representative Andrew L. Somers, of New York, named a subcommittee special counsel to investigate the entire rubber situation. It didn't matter that a half dozen other congressional committees were already engaged in the same task.

MEANINGLESS GESTURE The counsel selected by the committee was one Elliot E. Simpson, a New York broker, whose chief qualification for the post seemed to rest only on the fact that he had testified in some of the other investigations on the rubber situation and claimed to know more than anyone else about it. His appointment was made without authority of the house itself, or without any funds having been authorized for the inquiry. It was just one of those meaningless gestures a committee chairman is sometimes permitted to make. Mr. Simpson's first act on assuming his dubious duties was to employ for himself a press agent. Thereafter he began feeding the newspapers with daily statements of a semisensational nature about the rubber shortage. He has promised all kinds of revelations contrary to the official forecasts, none of which he has been able to produce thus far.

One of his shouted claims was that "the rubber shortage is a myth," whereas the President had told the country that rubber is "a very serious problem . . . because modern wars cannot be won without rubber and because 92 per cent of our normal supply of rubber has been cut off by the Japanese."

Simpson said there were 10,000,000 tons of scrap rubber lying around the country loose-enough and more for all our needs. Later when the President ordered an intensive drive to bring in the scrap, we only collected 5 per cent of this amount, which made Simpson At least, he had exaggerated the situation 20 to 1.

That is about the ratio of his accuracy on other phases of the rubber problem. Once he was quoted as saying: "If $500,000,000 were spent to take rubber out of Central and South America, instead of putting that money into factories to produce synthetic rubthis country could get more than enough rubber to meet the requirements of our war machine, the government and all civilians."

LATIN RUBBER The most optimistic statement government officials have been able to make, and that after a careful analysis of the situation, is that it will be several years before we can get as much as 100,000 tons annually out of the Latin countries. Even then we would have to overcome the submarine menace before transporting it here.

His latest charge is that the President's scrap collection has permitted four large salvage rubber firms to reap enormous profits—a charge that was promptly denied by Secretary Jones as utterly without foundation.

To issue charges and statements of the kind as an individual is quite a different thing from having them come out labeled as emanating from the chief counsel for a congressional committee. They would go unnoticed if they came from Mr. Simpson as an individual, much as the wealth of other crackpot material which is continually poured out to the press.

But to send out stuff in direct conflict with the official findings of duly constituted government agency heads, under cloak of congressional committee title, is to perpetrate a fraud on the public. The people, and to a lesser degree the newspapers, are deceived into thinking that the source of the material has some standing. It only adds to the confusion

In the face of all the inaccuracies he has committed, Simpson, when the propriety of his issuing conflicting statements is questioned, has been found ready with a release from Representative quoting the latter as follows: Barney Baruch of the rubber situation—the man whose every figure

WORD MORE

BY RALPH McGILL NEW YORK, July 17.—George Spelvin, IN OUR TOWN You will pardon me, I hope, if I talk a little bit about our town and the goings on in it.

I am proud of our town and of Georgia. There really is no place like Georgia, taking the bad along with the good. It is the And Job American, has been laid off his job, what most exciting state of all the 48 and one that ties people to it with a great bond of affection. Yesterday our town was exciting, too. The tempo was set at a breakfast at which

John L. Conner, chairman of the Million-Dollar War Bond Breakfast, announced it really was a three-and-a-half million dollar breakfast. It was a magnificent job.

There is just one quarrel I have with John Conner. He selected Birmingham as our town's competitor. There is no use selecting a push-over. If one is to have a competition one may as well have it. For John Conner to select a provincial town, in the city limits of which are to be found corn fields, large cow pastures and great barren lands, was something like shootng birds on the ground. Beat Birmingham? Of course.

Nevertheless, it was a swell job. That one breakfast will pay for about 10 of the big bombers and about 15 of the type which raided Tokyo. When one considers that on some flights 30 and 40 bombers are lost one can estimate what a lot of $3,500,000 breakfasts we need to have.

It has seen wars come

The breakfast at this "Million-Dollar Breakfast" might be of interest. There was a half grapefruit, bacon, scrambled eggs and

Each person paid for the breakfast, too. You couldn't buy better breakfast if you had a million. I often think there should be a law compelling the serving of grits for breakfast. Well, anyhow, that's how the day started in our town. It went on into a celebration of "Heroes' Day."

GEORGIA PRESS ASSOCIATION At 10 o'clock the first session of the 1942 Georgia Press Association began its streamlined two-day session. The Georgia Press Association has been going on for almost 60 years, never missing an annual session.

and go. It has survived depressions and booms. You will not find, anywhere, a more aggressive, independent group of editors than those of the weekly and daily press in Georgia. They do their own thinking. They are so independent they are, at times, ornery about it. Independence is a tradition in Georgia.

Your newspaper, even if you do not agree with it editorially, is something you should support if it gives you an intelligent, inde-

Your editor should be encouraged to take a stand on public matters. A newspaper that doesn't take a stand isn't worth its salt. People who subscribe to newspapers should demand the editors of that newspaper take a position on all affairs of public interest. If that stand happens to disagree with your views write and tell the editor so, state your own views, but do not condemn him for differing from your thinking.

The editors of Georgia newspapers take positions. They take firm positions. . I glory in all of them, those that differ with my ideas and those that do not. The weekly and daily press of Georgia thinks for itself. The editors will continue over through today. The session this year is devoted to war and the newspaper problems of the war. The newspapers of the nation submit to a voluntary censorship and are doing a great, patriotic job of keeping their opinions independent and their news columns free of any information which would be of help to the enemy.

USO, Dutch Relief, Greek Relief, War Prisoners' Relief, British Relief and other war agencies, all audited and certified, will receive more than $355,000.

It was a campaign in which all the workers were volunteers As usual there were a few of those snide persons one encounters in every campaign who writes anonymous notes to the newspapers saying they have 'heard' expenses of the campaign were too high. This campaign is a rebuke to them, Every Community

Fund solicitor knows them. There rarely has been the spirit in any campaign which this one possessed. It was a chance to do something in the war effort. Workers in stores, newspapers, offices, all contributed. House-to-house canvases found everyone in sympathy with the campaign. It was a grand day.

I give you the town which can have a war bond breakfast at

But in small matters of much importance, we often fail to learn from experience because we forget when the blister stops hurting. We must have new lessons because we don't review the old ones. You could save yourself much grief if you would form the habit of reviewing your past experience at intervals and noting which memories give you a feeling of satisfaction and which bring regret or shame

In this connection, Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the Senate Finance Committee, said he had received suggestions that a 1 1-2 cents a gallon "war servtax be imposed on gasoline sales to reimburse the government parts for its assumption of the extra gasoline hauling charge.

Preferred Treatment. Chairman Gillette, Democrat, Iowa, of a Senate Agriculture Subcommittee, which has been deeply concerned with the production of synthetic rubber, ex-pressed the belief that Standard Oil of New Jersey was receiving preferred treatment in the acceptance of a process which it recent-ly developed. This was the use of "flexon" as a rubber substi-

Every precaution is taken to see that the peaches are at the right degree of ripeness, and that they are properly peeled, sliced, treated to prevent browning and packaged in such a way as to preserve the maximum color, flavor and texture of the fruit.

The Crossfield Ice Company was recently expanded to help preserve the peach and pimientocrops in this section of the state. The plant was open for operation July 1, and plans are under way to freeze a million pounds of peaches and pimientos this season, it is stated.

THOMSON CANNERY IS KEPT BUSY
THOMSON, Ga., July 17.—Jimmay Maxwell, vocational instructor, announces that the Thomson cannery is doing a big business this season. Beginning next week, canning days will be increased to four days a week. Tuesdays, Wednesday and Friday will be used by the white people of the county, and on Thursdays the colored people will have the use of the canning, but the city housewives are canning extensively.

Business Girls Try Hand At Farming

By Ida Jean Kain

If you are a business girl and live in or near an agricultural sec-tion, you might like to take your summer vacation in one of Uncle Sam's "land armies." These are recruiting city folks to help the farmers out with the heaviest crop they've had in years-and with farm labor the scarcest.

The migrant farm hands are not showing up and a high percentage of the boys and girls who were brought up on farms have gone into defense industry or the Army. So far the high school and college boys and girls have managed to ease the situation but the people in the farm section of the United States Employment Service are looking ahead to September and October when the young crowds go back to school. That is when harvest hands will be needed

Miss Henrietta Rothstein, farm co-ordinator for Metropolitan New York, tells me that farmers are quite ready to accept inexperienced workers for as short a period as two weeks. But don't imagine you will be welcome for weekends. Since there is no market on Sunday, Saturday is the least productive day of the week. Then on Sunday you would be heading for home.

Miss Rothstein served in a similar capacity during the other war and is quick to notice the signs of a back-to-the-farm movement. "It always happens," she said: "The young people from the city find they like life on the farm—the women especially. There's romance in the air already. A good many of the farmerettes will be married to farmers before the

I asked Miss Rothstein if there is anything the summer farmerette can do to make the change easier, neglect their teeth as they do. They would not put off necessary and she said, "Yes, get in the sun and she said, "res, get in the said all day." Work clothes have to be more durable than play clothes. Blue denim overalls are lightweight slacks.

They would not put of the denim how to make the table acid jelly as recommended for burns by the defense authorities, hurt, unwillingness or inability to burns by the defense authorities.

MY DAY: The War And Free Trade

WASHINGTON, Thursday.—Yesterday morning, on reaching New York City, I went to see an old friend who has been ill. I found her so much better it started the whole day off cheerfully. I left and took the train to Trenton, N. J., in the early afternoon to go to Bordentown to speak for the State Federation of Colored Wom-

I had a good many appointments this morning, so I have been busy, for I am going back to New York City this afternoon to attend an International Student Service executive committee meeting this

I hope that you all read the Vice President's article last Sunday. He brought up a subject which all of us need to consider. What we do now and in the next few years will mean building for peace, or building for another war. It seems to me that all of us should understand that rubber is just one of the many things which are important to the rest of the world as well as to us. They will decide our future relationships with the rest of the world. If we allow ourselves, because of the interests of any particular group in our country, to be inveigled into doing such things as putting traiffer an cortain twose of products. into doing such things as putting tariffs on certain types of products, n order that we can carry on an international production at a high cost, we will add to our own cost of living.

What is much more serious, however, is the fact that we will cut down the opportunites of other nations to exchange with us on a free basis; and the cutting down of the free volume of trade is certainly one of the causes of war. This whole question is going to involve economic questions from the international, and not the national, point of view

It is enlightened selfishness to build up the ability of other nations to a higher standard of living. We thus produce wider markets for ourselves as well as the rest of the world. But all this does require education on our part.

Then there was Bernie Adler who wrote "That Lovin' Rag," which is interesting because it was probably the first ragtime melody with lyrics. It was written be fore the more famous "St. Louis Blues." The latter is said to have been an instrumental number at first, the lyrics being added later It remains to this day the greatest of the so-called "Blues" songs.

All old-timers agree that Lee Lloyd, who worked in Train's, was one of the greatest cafe entertainers of his era. He was originally a ballad singer but switched to comedy as offering a wider field and went to San Francisco with another "sawdust canary," as Halligan puts it, known as "The Porterhouse Kid." I knew "Porterhouse." He worked in silent pictures for D. W. Griffith. Lloyd hooked up with a piano player named Hart and they became a sensation as "Tom's Cabin," a spot opposite Golden Gate park run by Gallagher and McNamara.

Sandy MacNaughton took them away from Gallagher and McNamara and put them in a place on the beach that he called "The Breakers." They made so much money they opened a place of their own and continued to prosper. Martin Beck saw Lloyd and put him in vaudeville, opening him at the Colonial in New York, but Lee was not the success on the stage that he was in a cafe. He died, I be-

Right From Start NEW ORLEANS, La., July ignation as athletic director at the University of Georgia brings to mind his prophecy about Wallace Butts as a head coach

Joel Hunt was head coach at Georgia and Butts was a hard-working member of the staff.

One day, along toward midseason, Dr. Payne told me to keep an eye on Butts, the little round man. "He's going to make Georgia a fine head coach."

It was generally understood then that Hunt would not return for another season Butts was elevated to the head coaching job the following year and, of course, when he came along with Georgia's first bowl team last season there was no one prouder of that fact than Dr. Payne.

We talked about it after Georgia's selection by the Orange Bowl committee.

'I was sure he had the stuff," said Dr. Payne, "and I glory in his success."

Dr. Payne served Georgia well as athletic director, but the dual role he held-he was also a member of the history department faculty-made exceeding demands on his

Choice of Wally Butts as his successor is no doubt as

On Same Side I can hardly imagine Bob Ney-land and Wallace Wade on the same side. But, of course, they are on the same side in the big conflict . . . and war changes a lot of things.

One thing sure, the pro league clubs that meet the Army All-Stars coached by the Old Bear and the Major will know they've been in a ball game.

Neyland always had the edge on Wade when he was at Tennessee and when Wade was at Alabama and Duke.

It wasn't until after Neyland was recalled for army duty that Duke finally handed the Volunteers a lacing. Neyland simply had the Indian sign on him.

Together they're liable to dedicate a totem pole to the pro clubs. Granny Rice wouldn't take no for an answer as head of the War Football Fund. He had a choice of a number of coaches, but he wanted only two from the deep south. Now he's got 'em.

And the pros must take the consequences. No Chance "Who ever thought," asked Harry Martinez, the Gray Eagle of the New Orleans States, "Neyland and Wade would be revealing their football secrets to one another?" Frankly, stranger things probably have happened, but don't think there is a remote possibility of anything The Army stars will get the basic stuff of the two systems, but no secret stuff. No, sir. Both Neyland and Wade are planning on returning to their respective schools some day when they'll again be on opposite sides of the gridiron.

The basic stuff will be enough, however. Ask any coach. He'll settle for a combination of these systems, without asking for anything special thrown in.

Newsom Blanks Tigers; Williams' Hit in 12th Cops for Sox.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—(A) Stocky Chet Laabs continued his batting spree for the St. Louis Browns today-socking out two more homers and driving in six runs—as the Browns beat the Athletics in both ends of a doubleheader, 4 to 2 and 11 to 1, to oust Detroit from fourth place.

The Browns now have won eight games in a row-one from the Yankees, three from the Red Sox and four from the A's—and Laabs' mighty bat has provided the power to win nearly all of them.

In the last seven days he has walloped six homers and driven in 22 runs. He now has clouted 17 homers and batted in 64 runs, compared to his 15 roundtrippers and 59 RBI for the entire 1941 campaign.

Cacker pilot could say whodunit. Actually before Richards' cap, which he had tossed straight up, settled back to earth.

But it had no bearing on the game, and after Turbeville got his hit the Crackers took it out on him a-plenty.

The Crackers dropped a double-header, including a game in which Emile Lochbaum allowed only three hits, but in salvaging the final game of the series they made the Pelicans look like a fugitive team from the Southeastern League.

There'll be an off-day tomorrow which the Crackers will spend riding back to Atlanta for the start of a home series Sunday with Memphis. Jim Mertz and Jesse Danna will do the pitching.

Tonight's final produced 15 hits, most of them off Turbeville. Oddly the two hits which the Pelicans finally got were divided among the Pel batterymen.

High spot of the Cracker hit parade came in the eight-run ninth when Lindsey Deal clouted a two-hitmen homer and Charlie Letchas smote a three-run double.
